

ILA Scotland Learning Provider Registration

About ILA Scotland

ILA Scotland is a cornerstone of the Scottish Government's Lifelong Learning strategy. It is an individual learning account for anyone aged 16 or over and living in Scotland. Learners who have an earned income of £22,000 a year or less or who are on benefits may be eligible for £200 per year to help them pay for a wide range of ILA Scotland approved courses.

Providing learners with a positive and productive experience of learning is a core aim of ILA Scotland. This is achieved through the application of rigorous quality standards and will be further supported by robust operating procedures. As an ILA Scotland learning provider, you will receive very clear guidance on how the scheme will operate and what will be required of you. You can also be assured of an efficient, regular and secure payment procedure.

How to become a registered ILA Scotland learning provider

If you wish to participate in the ILA Scotland scheme, you must meet at least one of the following quality standards:

- In receipt of funding from the Scottish Funding Council through having recognition of good standing regarding Quality Assurance Agency Scotland (QAAS) for Higher Education and/or recognition of good standing regarding the requirements of HM Inspectorate of Education (HMIE)
- Scottish Qualifications Authority (SQA) initial approval as an SQA-approved centre
- Approved learndirect scotland branded learning centre. If you hold one of the above standards then you can download an application pack from the ILA Scotland website.

Next steps

The application contains two legally binding documents which you must complete and return to us:

- The Learning Provider Registration Agreement (LPRA) commits you to comply with the scheme rules, maintain accurate records, allow access to your premises and supply such additional information as requested by the Learning Account Administrator
