Introduction

1. This document is a guide to the Individual Learning Account Scotland (ILA Scotland) scheme Operational Rules for Learning Providers ('Operational Rules').
2. The Operational Rules are set out in full at Annex A and are published on the ILA Scotland website www.ilascotland.org.uk. Any change to the Operational Rules will be published on the ILA Scotland website with immediate effect.
3. The Operational Rules and this guidance apply to all learning providers who are registered with Skills Development Scotland (SDS) to provide approved learning and claim ILA Scotland grants for people who qualify in the terms of the Scottish scheme.
4. Any queries on the contents of this guidance should be directed to the ILA Scotland learning provider helpline:

Tel: 0141 285 6104.
5. Please also refer to the Frequently Asked Questions section on the ILA Scotland website.

What learning providers must do

Complying with the Operational Rules and Regulations

6. This Guidance does not supersede or replace the Operational Rules or Regulations of ILA Scotland. Providers should be aware that any breach of the Rules or Regulations could render them liable to repay money to the scheme and/or result in their suspension or removal from the scheme.

Learning provider registration

7. Any organisation wishing to provide approved learning and claim ILA Scotland grants for people who qualify in the terms of the Scottish scheme must be registered with SDS as an approved learning provider and have its ILA Scotland-eligible learning included on the ILA Scotland database.
8. As a condition of that registration all learning providers must accept and sign a Learning Provider Registration Agreement (LPRA). This Agreement is designed to ensure that learning providers understand and accept their responsibilities under the scheme and that they will operate in an appropriate manner.
9. Under the LPRA, learning providers are expected to help individuals choose learning that is relevant to their needs and abilities by giving clear and unambiguous advice.
10. Learning Providers must consider whether a learner is eligible for Fee Waiver support rather than ILA200. Learners must not receive fee waiver and ILA200 for the same learning opportunity

Registration of “booked” learning on the ILA Scotland system

11. Learning providers must book, confirm or cancel all claims for ILA Scotland funding via the online ILA Scotland system. A step by step guide on how to book learning, confirm an individual’s start date and claim ILA Scotland grants is provided in the guidance document How To Use The Learning Provider Website, issued with confirmation of the learning provider’s ILA Scotland account and website access details. Please also see the attached Annex C (ILA Scotland Transaction Time Limits).

Payment of any Third Party contributions

12. Learning providers are not allowed to make any contribution, whether financial, in kind or in the form of any incentive, towards the learner’s share of the costs (see also paragraph 15 below regarding price discounts). In any case where it is found that the learner did not make the appropriate contribution the learning provider will be liable to repay any ILA Scotland grant paid to them on that learner’s behalf.
13. Learning providers must ensure that they keep appropriate financial records of any third party contributions (e.g. from employers or others) that were made towards the cost of that learning episode, and make these available on demand.
14. The ILA Scotland funds claimed by the provider must always be calculated on the basis of the course price after the deduction of any third party contributions.

EXAMPLE

Price of course	£250
less: Employer's contribution	£125
equals: ILA Scotland claim	£125

Discounting the full, published course price

- 15 There may be instances where a learning provider offers discounts on the advertised price of a course to certain types of learner – such as pensioners or the unemployed, perhaps as part of the organisation's own wider access/flexible provision policy. Such discounts are permitted provided that details are published in advance and that these discounts are not offered as an inducement to attract ILA Scotland learners. In any case in which such a discount may be offered, the course(s) concerned must feature in the ILA Scotland database as two (or more) separate learning opportunities, each individually priced to show the actual price payable after any discount has been applied.

NB. It is not permitted to record any discount offered to a learner as a third party contribution to the full price of the course unless the learner is an employee of the learning provider. If the price reduction is a discount specifically available only to employees of the learning provider then the discount may be recorded as a third party (i.e. employer's) contribution.

Modular courses

16. In the case of any education or training offered on a modular basis, where the learner may opt to enrol and pay for each module separately, each module must be included in the ILA Scotland database, individually priced.

If a learner decides to leave a course

17. Once a learner has started an ILA Scotland approved course and a valid claim for payment has been made by the learning provider, this is recorded against the individual's ILA Scotland record and a commitment is made to the learning provider for these funds to be paid from the learner's available ILA Scotland entitlement. If the learner later decides to leave the course (for whatever reason), he/she cannot reclaim any of that element of the ILA Scotland grant for alternative use. However, in such circumstances and at their own discretion, the learning provider may agree to repay any ILA Scotland funds paid in respect of that learning, so that the learner's ILA Scotland account may be re-credited.

Value Added Tax (VAT) and ILA Scotland grants

18. VAT is not payable on any ILA Scotland grants disbursed by the Student Awards Agency for Scotland (SAAS) on behalf of the Scottish Ministers.
19. If a learning provider qualifies as an eligible body under Schedule 9 of the VAT Act 1994 (in broad terms, such an eligible body is one which provides education or training on a not-for-profit basis), all other contributions towards the cost of ILA Scotland-supported learning are also VAT-exempt.
20. If a learning provider does not qualify as an 'eligible body', VAT is payable on all contributions towards the cost of ILA Scotland-supported learning (e.g. any third party, contribution) other than the ILA Scotland grant.

21. Any specific queries regarding a learning provider's eligibility status or VAT liability should be taken up by the learning provider with their local VAT Business Advice Centre.

The Learning Token

22. When a learning provider books a learning episode on the ILA Scotland system, a 'Learning Token' unique to that piece of learning is issued directly to the learner by ILA Scotland. On or after the start date of learning (see below), the learner must surrender that unique Learning Token to the learning provider. In order to confirm a claim for ILA funds on behalf of that learner, the learning provider must enter the details of the Learning Token on the ILA Scotland system.
23. The learning provider must retain the Learning Token or an acceptable electronic copy of the Learning Token (as defined by the Learning Account Administrator), signed and dated by the learner on the date it is surrendered, for audit purposes (ref. paragraph 33 below).

Booking a learning episode on the ILA Scotland system

24. A "standard" course has a set start date, as published on the ILA Scotland database. A "flexible start date" (FSD) course does not have a set start date on the ILA Scotland system.
25. A learning episode may be booked on the ILA Scotland system up to 180 days before it starts for a "standard" course. This does not apply to FSD courses, for which there is no specified period.

Confirming the start of a booked learning episode

26. The start of a learning episode is deemed to be;

[for "standard" courses with a set start date] the start date published on the ILA Scotland database.

[for "flexible start date" (FSD) courses] the date on which the learning provider books the learning episode on the ILA Scotland system.

27. The start of learning for each individual learner is deemed to be:

[for classroom-based learning, the start date is the date on which the learner first attends a class].

[for distance or open learning] as defined in the Definition of Eligible Learning (see Annex B), the start date is the date on which the learner has received and confirmed in writing, through surrender of the signed and dated Learning Token, acceptance of all of the learning materials and equipment necessary to start the learning which the learning provider has undertaken to supply. For distance learning courses which require that the learner first attends an induction class, the start date is the date on which the learner attends that class.

28. For a “standard” course the start of learning for any individual learner must be confirmed on the ILA Scotland system within 60 days of the start of the relevant learning episode. After this time, the token will expire automatically and the Learning Provider will be unable to claim the course fee.
- 29.. For “FSD” course start of learning for any individual learner must be confirmed on the ILA Scotland system within 60 days of the relevant booking being made on the system. After this time, the token will expire automatically and the Learning Provider will be unable to claim the course fee.
30. The ILA Scotland guidance for learners stresses that the Learning Token should be supplied to the learning provider promptly upon starting the learning. Learning providers may wish to make learners aware that if they fail to supply the Learning Token to the learning provider they may be billed for the full cost of the learning.
31. Any claim for payment of an ILA Scotland grant before the start date of learning is not acceptable and automatically invalidates that claim.

Value for money

32. Skills Development Scotland (SDS) is entitled to take reasonable account of value for money when making decisions about whether a learning provider or course should be approved for ILA Scotland registration. Where it is considered that the price of the ILA Scotland-eligible learning does not constitute value for money (e.g. where the price of ILA Scotland-funded learning is considered to be inflated relative to comparable, non ILA Scotland-funded courses), the Scottish Ministers and SDS reserve the right to refuse or withdraw approval of the course or learning provider.

Audit requirements

33. Learning providers must be able to present, on request, to SDS, its representatives or Audit Scotland, documentary evidence of the following:
 - the start date of the learning and proof that the individual has commenced that episode of learning in line with the definitions of the start date provided at paragraphs 26 and 27 above
 - receipt of any third party contribution to the course price
 - the Learning Token, or acceptable electronic copy of the Learning Token, unique to that piece of learning, signed and dated by the learner.
34. All of these documents must be retained for a minimum of 6 years, and learning providers should ensure that the documentation is easily retrievable and readable for inspection purposes. If a learning provider does not hold this documentation as evidence that they have operated in compliance with the ILA Scotland operational rules, they may be required to repay in full any ILA Scotland funding for which a valid claim cannot be established.

How ILA Scotland grants are applied and paid.

35. ILA Scotland grants cannot be claimed retrospectively where a learner has already paid in full for their course of learning.

36. The costs of books or other material (e.g. CD-ROMs) are not eligible for ILA Scotland funding unless included in the course fees. Computer hardware costs are not eligible under any circumstances.
37. In any cases of doubt, ILA Scotland can advise both ILA Scotland learners and learning providers about how ILA Scotland grants apply in individual circumstances.

ILA Scotland grants and other sources of public funding

38. In cases where the learner or the learning provider is in receipt of funding from another public source (or sources) for some, but not all, of the price of a learning opportunity (e.g. European Social Fund (ESF), ILA Scotland grant may be applied to the portion not paid from those other public funds.
39. There may be circumstances in which the learner may be eligible for funding from another public source on terms which would be more advantageous to the learner (e.g. a fee waiver). In such cases, you must advise the learner of the available options and must recommend the use of that option most advantageous to the learner.

What learning providers must not do

40. As a condition of ILA Scotland registration you must not:
 - employ or use a marketing company or other agent to promote ILA Scotland-approved learning unless you are assured that their marketing activity fully complies with the ILA Scotland Regulations, Operational Rules and Marketing Guidance. Learning providers will be held directly responsible for any non-compliant practices of any marketing company engaged by them and such practices by the marketing agents may result in the suspension or cancellation of the learning provider's ILA Scotland registration
 - use the logo of the Scottish Government, any other Government Department involved in the ILA Scotland scheme, SAAS or SDS on your promotional literature
 - use the ILA Scotland trademark or logo without express permission
 - imply that you are representing, in partnership with or accredited by the Scottish Government, any other Government Department involved in the ILA Scotland scheme, SAAS or SDS when promoting your learning
 - imply in any way that ILA Scotland funds can be used only for learning provided by you
 - offer cash or other incentives (such as "expenses", or free or subsidised software/hardware) to ILA Scotland members to sign up for or undertake your course
 - allow the individual to start an episode of learning for which they wish to use an ILA Scotland grant before their ILA Scotland membership is valid

- claim an ILA Scotland payment for learning that an individual has not started and/or for which the learner has not received and accepted the appropriate learning material.
41. You must not submit a claim for payment before the learning has commenced and the learner has surrendered the Learning Token, signed and dated.

Failure to comply with the Operational Rules

Cancellation of ILA Scotland registration

42. Scottish Ministers, through SDS, reserve the right to suspend or cancel the registration of a learning provider at any time if they consider that the ILA Scotland rules and/or conditions are not met, or the behaviour of the learning provider is likely to bring the ILA Scotland scheme into disrepute. In addition, if it is considered that the learning provider may have been acting inappropriately or improperly, steps may be taken to withhold the payment of outstanding claims while the matter is resolved.
43. Any learning provider considered to have failed to comply with the ILA Scotland Operational Rules and Regulations, or the conditions laid out in this guidance, will be contacted and asked to respond in writing within 10 working days to the concerns that have been identified.
44. Should the learning provider fail to respond or fully address the issues raised within 28 days, the learning provider's ILA Scotland registration may be cancelled.

Investigations

45. Any investigation may involve SDS or its agents undertaking a visit to the learning provider's premises. The purpose of this visit will be to ensure that the learning provider has claimed ILA Scotland funds in accordance with this guidance and the ILA Scotland Operational Rules and Regulations. SDS or its agents will require access to all appropriate material and this may include, among other things, the following:
- copies of marketing material
 - details of courses for which the learning provider is claiming/has claimed ILA Scotland grants
 - Learning Tokens, or acceptable electronic copies of Learning Tokens, signed and dated by the learner, in respect of all claims for ILA Scotland grants
 - evidence that the learning provider is offering value for money.
46. If the learning provider refuses access or is unable to supply any of the documentation referred to in paragraph 33, they may be required to repay in full any ILA Scotland grant for which they are unable to prove that a valid claim has been made. This may also result in the learning provider's ILA Scotland registration being cancelled.
47. In most cases the learning provider will be given 28 days to respond in writing to any concerns raised. However, SDS reserves the right to suspend or cancel a learning provider's registration without notice, if that learning provider fails to respond or if it is considered that there is sufficient evidence to indicate potential fraud. The identification of any potentially fraudulent activity may also result in direct referral to the police.

Review

48. Where a learning provider is aggrieved by a decision to suspend or cancel ILA Scotland registration they may, within 21 days of having been notified of the decision in question, request that the decision should be reviewed in accordance with the review process published on the ILA Scotland website.

The right to withhold payment or demand repayment of grants

49. The Scottish Ministers reserve the right to withhold payment or demand repayment of ILA Scotland grants in whole or in part where the claim does not comply with the terms of the ILA Scotland Operational Rules and Regulations.

Data Protection

50. Learning providers are reminded of their obligation to conform to the current Data Protection Act.
